Industry function definitions:

Wool selling agent

Wool Selling Agents (known as ‘brokers’) support wool growers in selling their wool by providing preparation advice, information, handling, and trading services among many other services in rural communities. They are vital to their grower customer’s - and so to SustainaWOOL.

SustainaWOOL works closely with brokers to ensure data integrity standards are met for wool lots identified as originating from SustainaWOOL growers.

Wool exporter &/or processor

Wool exporters and or processors are involved in the evaluation, purchase, post-sale logistics and export of consignment to wool processors.

Wool Processors are thereafter responsible for conversion of wool from greasy form into the myriad of textile products retailed around the globe. Typically, wool processors specialise in wool scouring and topmaking (and/or carbonising), spinning, knitting, and weaving.

SustainaWOOL works closely with partner wool exporters and processors in certifying SustainaWOOL products along the wool demand chain, from farm to retail.

Brand &/or retail

Brands and retailers provide the vital interface with wool consumers, and also play a vital role in driving demand for supply chain integrity services, such as SustainaWOOL.

SustainaWOOL works closely with brands and retailers to ensure final products are correctly described as SustainaWOOL certified, and in promoting SustainaWOOL.

Industry service provider

Industry service providers provide vital services to SustainaWOOL or its members throughout the demand chain. Industry service providers include rural training providers, certification standards owners, testing providers, industry associations, and research and marketing bodies.

SustainaWOOL works closely with industry service providers in the conduct of our integrity operations, our engagement with growers, and in extending SustainaWOOL products and services around the globe.
